

Hi there!

I am glad you stopped by and are interested in Idaho. It is the greatest place I have ever known. If you have never been here, you will find that many airlines can get you to Boise, and to get to Coeur d'Alene, you will need to fly into Spokane, WA. From Spokane, it is a quick 45-minute drive to Coeur d'Alene (CDA).

Personally, I like to use Alaska or Southwest for my travels. They usually have the best schedules and Alaska/Horizon will take you to the more remote cities in Idaho.

I have lived in Idaho for 20 years. We visited friends in CDA in July 2002. We planned on moving 5 years later, then 9/11 happened and we decided to move ASAP. We moved the following June. It was not an easy transition (I had a law firm and an active trial calendar). But we made it work.

Ultimately, I left the law practice and shifted to online marketing. I fell in love with the real estate market and now combine my negotiation skills and digital marketing experience to help my clients.

Below you will find links to some local CDA information to get you started on a North Idaho tour. Personally, I recommend North Idaho. It is a place of pristine beauty that takes decades to discover. There is so much to see and do. We have five ski resorts in the area, lakes, rivers and mountains to climb. Wildlife is abundant and the night sky is a black backdrop to a Milky Way that looks like a cloud. In CDA we have all the major conveniences, and anything that we are lacking can be found in a short trip to Spokane.

If you are retiring, or can work remotely, I believe north Idaho is the place to move. We have a growing economy and jobs are available.

My entire extended family moved from southern California to Idaho when we did, but so far, they all moved to the Boise area. If that is an area that interests you, that is fantastic. I know that area well and can help you find an awesome realtor to help you with local expertise.

You're going to love Idaho and it would be my honor to help you get here as quickly and hassle-free as possible.

Michael

PS. If you didn't make a zoom appointment with me, please get in my calendar this week: <https://idaho-properties.com/meeting>. That way you can go through some of the information below and I can get more specific information tailored to your specific needs.

Also, if you need to meet at time that is not showing as available on my calendar, please send me an email at michael@idaho-properties.com and I will make sure that we can set up a time to meet. 😊

North Idaho

I can get you in touch with lenders in the area to get you prequalified. I always offer a few different lenders for you to contact and choose from if you like.

Note: I receive no compensation or any kind of incentive (whatsoever) from any vendor that I might refer my clients to. None, Zero, Nada!
